DON'T FORGET "THREE LIVE GHOSTS"

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF THE SAN FRANCISCO STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

VOL IX. WEDNESDAY, SEPEMBER 17, 1930 No. 3

STUDENT BODY WILL PARTICIPATE IN INFORMAL AFTERNOON RECEPTION FOR MEMBERS OF FACULTY

DR. AND MRS. ROBERTS TO HEAD LONG RECEIVING LINE OF FACULTY, STUDENTS

In order to bring the student body and the faculty into closer acquaintanceship, a reception for the faculty will be held today from 4:15 to 5:30 in the gymnasium.

With Eleanor Jessie as chairman, it has been arranged that elaborate refreshments will be served, and novel decorations will add to the festivity of the occasion.

President and Mrs. Roberts will head the receiving line consisting of faculty, the student body officers, presidents of the clubs, and upper classmen.

It is hoped that the affair will become a regular fall reception, and that through this means, the students and the faculty will have an opportunity to meet each other.

The hostesses for the afternoon are as follows: Catherine O'Sullivan, Ruth Reay, Alice Zander, Dorothy Williamson, Esther Wacholder, Kathleen O'Farrell, Claire Grimes, Edith Schultz, Alice Rich, Mildred Smith, Leah Boehm, Myrtle Saxe, Audrey Moore, Dorothy Asher, Margaret Lemon, Vivian Walsh, Frances Miser, Minnie Kern, Anna MacHugh, Muriel Phillips, Gola Sanders, Phyllis Fibush, Ruth Lescinski, Eleanore George, Lillian Tyrrell, Barbara Blaess, Marion Donaldson, Eunice Humphreys, Jacquelyn Beedle, Marion Cooch, Alice Clark, Mrs. Ruth Herndon, Kathryn Conroy, Laura David, Del Mylins, and Elena Foppiano.

Upper: Dean and Mrs. Du Four

New Press Club Is Organized By Paper Reporters

In order to organize a Press Club, a meeting of the journalism class, which consists of the reporters of the "Bay Leaf" was held, Monday, September 8, 1930, in Room 119. With Miss Marilaton Stewart acting as chairman, the election of officers was held. The results of the election were: Mr. Webster Allen, president; Miss Rosalyn Hyde, vice-president; Miss Marie Sime, secretary; Miss Betty Gilchrist, treasurer; Miss Ruth Raymond, social chairman.

The club will hold regular meetings and will be conducted just as the other organizations of the college are. A luncheon will be given each month to stimulate interest and to bring its members into social contact. The first luncheon is scheduled for September.

Steps have been taken to affiliate this press club with Alpha Phi Gamma, the journalism fraternity. It is possible that a new chapter of this society may be established in the college in the near future.

Faculty Member to Give Lecture Series

"Asia and its Peoples" will be the title of a series of lectures to be given soon by Mrs. Anna V. Dorris, traveler, author, lecturer, and member of the faculty of this college.

The first lecture of the series will be given on Tuesday, September 16, at the San Francisco Center of the University of California Extension Division.

The same group of lectures will be given by Mrs. Dorris at the Oakland center, starting Thursday, September 18. The time will be from 8 to 9:30 p. m. at both places.

Mrs. Dorris, who a year ago completed a trip around the world, has many facts of interest to relate about the Oriental people.

S. T. C. COLLEGE THEATRE TO PRESENT "THREE LIVE GHOSTS" AS FIRST PRODUCTION OF SEMESTER

AMY TAUBMAN PLAYS LEADING ROLE; EUNICE HUMPHREYS INTERPRETS GIRL

Three dead men came to life again; their reincarnation takes place September 19, at Frederic Burk Auditorium.

"Three Live Ghosts," one of the most stirring productions of the year, is the name of this eerie play by Frederick Isham. The College Theatre group chose this mystery drama because of its great popularity. It has been copyrighted five times and has had a big run as a "talkie."

Amy Taubman

The setting is in the Cockney district of London. Intense suspense is created by missing jewels, abducted babies, and Scotland Yard men popping in and out.

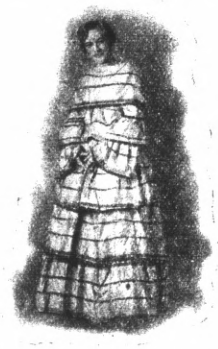
The plot centers around three soldiers reported dead in the World War. Their ghostlike return brings about complications both humorous and tragic.

Amy Taubman, who achieved success last year in "Mr. Pim Passes By," has a character part, that of an old Cockney Englishwoman. She promises to excell her previous record in this.

Eunice Humphries, president of the College Theatre, bids fair to surpass her former successes in her present role of the young girl of the play. Miss Humphries will be remembered as Gwendolyn in "Nothing But the Truth," and as one of the sisters in "Lillies of the Field."

Hazel Dell Adamson takes the character part of a young moron.

One of the greatest drawing cards of the College Theatre, George Belieu, has already established for himself a noteworthy reputation in "Mr. Pim Passes By." In this coming production he takes the part of a young Cockney, the first young man's role he has ever attempted.



Eunice Humphreys

Everett O'Rourke's good work in "Peg O' My Heart" and "Mr. Pim Passes By" will be recalled by all who saw him.

Bill O'Connoll, a new man in college, promises to be a favorite actor this season.

Those who appear in the cast are:

Mrs. Gubbins (known as "Old Sweetheart)", Amy Taubman
Miss Woofers....Hazel Dell Adamson
Rose Gordon.....Eunice Humphries
Lady Leicester....Dorothy Dionysus
William Jones.....Bill O'Connoll
Spoofy ..... Everett O'Rourke
Jimmy Gubbins.....George Belieu
William Bolton, detective...."Bud" Miller
Briggs, of Scotland Yard.....Paul Springer
Benson, of Scotland Yeard....William Jackson

President Heard On Local Station

Monday evening, September 8, Dr. Roberts spoke over Radio Station K. F. R. C. during the Blue Monday Jamboree. His talk developed one idea, that education is a big business.

Dr. Roberts explained his statement by saying that one million students are enrolled in twelve hundred normal schools, teachers' colleges, junior colleges, and universities this year. There are five million students enrolled this year in more than twenty thousand high schools. The elementary schools exceed both these figures, for twenty-five million boys and girls are taught by six hundred thousand teachers. The key to all this big business is the training of the elementary teacher.

In closing his speech, Dr. Roberts said, "And remember that for each college student there are five high school students in your local high schools, and twenty-five boys and girls in that elementary school down the street."

Faculty is Recognized

Two of our faculty members have been listed in the new edition of "Who's Who" that has just come off the press. Dr. Roberts is recognized as an educator, president of college, and as an author, and Miss McFadden is designated as a writer.

Nine Members Are Added To Faculty

Due to the large student body this semester, the S. T. C. faculty has been increased by nine new members.

Mr. Sherman L. Brown, formerly of Chico, is replacing Mr. Arthur Gist as principal of the Fredric Burk School and director of practice teaching.

Mr. David J. Cox has come from Polytechnic High School to be the first dean of men and athletic coach.

Miss Velda Cundiff from the University of Washington has joined the women's physical education department.

Mr. L. Fenton from the Alabama Polytechnic Institute has been added to the English department. Mr. Fenton is at present working for his doctor's degree at Stanford.

Mrs. Ruth Witt-Diamant, formerly of the Syracuse University, is another member of the English department.

Miss Edna Fisher, at present studying for her doctor's degree at the University of California, has been added to the Biological Science group.

Miss Eileen McCall of the University of California has joined the music department.

Men's Club Meets To Elect Officers

The second meeting of the Men's Club was held Friday, September 5, for the purpose of electing officers.

Those elected are as follows: President, Everett O'Rourke; vice-president, Willis Miller; secretary, Alton Cohen; assistant secretary, Bill Bordon; treasurer, Tom Bragg.

President O'Rourke introduced Catehrine O'Sullivan, president of the student body, who spoke to those present as to their social status in the college, and pledged the support of the rest of the student body to the club.

Miss O'Sullivan was followed by Dean Cox with one of his well known heart to heart talks. President O'Rourke also addressed the group and outlined the purpose of the club.

Positions Offered In Night Teaching

All students who are interested in or qualified to teach puppetry, dramatics, ball-room dancing, glee club, tool work, basketry, or handicraft to a Boys' Club in the evening should get in touch with Dean Ward at once.

Th boys in the club range from nine to sixteen years in age. Teaching hours will be from seven-thirty to nine, one or more evenings a week. For this an inexperienced student would receive one dollar and carfare per evening. An experienced, qualified student would receive one dollar and a half and carfare per evening. When applying, state experience, training, and preference in teaching.

There is also an afternoon class of children from six to nine years of age that needs student-teachers. Miss Ward has information about both of these positions.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE STUDENT BODY:

Participating in extra-curricular activities seems to me to be a very worthwhile effort upon the part of every student in our college. Your experiences and ideas, no matter how trival they may seem to you, are important to our student body as a whole.

To uphold the college ideals and standards, to be forward-looking in all my efforts, to accept your suggestions and try to develop them into worthwhile plans, and to serve you in every possible way that I am able, is my desire as your president.

Help me to do my part with your cooperation and spirit. I am with you and for you in everything that makes our college the best ever.

Catherine O'Sullivan

HOW ABOUT A RALLY SONG ?

"Why hasn't S. T. C. a 'College Rally Song'?" is the query that has been extensively heard everywhere about the campus since the beginning of the semester.

And there is no doubt that we need one. At the Collegiate Mass Rally last Wednesday, the need was indeed shown. Everyone felt like singing, but there was no song that could be sung to show our energy and vim. Who wanted to sing another college's song?

We wanted one of our own!

Yes, we have a hymn, but of what good is a hymn at a game or rally to stir up enthusiasm? Then too, how many of us know it?

A number of other instances have arisen revealing our need for a peppy college song. Many alumni of S. T. C. have been duly embarrassed when they were unable to respond to a call for a "S. T. C. Song" after members of other colleges had shouted theirs.

Where are all the musicians and poets in our college? Let's see them; and everyone else too, show some college spirit and get to work on a "Rally Song" for S. T. C.

OUR "MASS" RALLY

Petey the Pedagogue verbosely calls our attention to the Mass Rally. It is unfortunate, indeed, that our students, seeking a good time, need be forced to associate with a roudy and boisterous element from other schools. Let's all unite to oust the "gate-crasher" in the future. Imagine our embarrassment in having to run a prize fox trot twenty minutes overtime in order to find a couple, both of whom were students of this college. Let's lock the door before the horse is stolen!

T. N. T.

Dear T. N. T.,

I don't like dirty glasses! And I can't drink liquids out of dirty glasses! Perhaps you haven't noticed, but the glasses in the cafeteria are dirty. Can't you do something to help correct this for your fellow students?

Yours for clean glasses,
"S. O. S."

Dear "S. O. S.",

For a pedagogical institution whose inmates are preparing to drum hygiene into the school children of tomorrow, one would think that the first essential would be to attain perfect hygienic tactics here. Perhaps the students in the "caf" have dried the glasses with such rapidity that they did not notice the remaining stains. Suppose you see Miss Spelman and ask if a little more attention could be paid to the containers of liquid?

T. N. T.

* * *

Dear T. N. T.,

Surely out of 110 men one could find material enough for a "Men's Chorus?" This is of vital importance to the men, and the future of such an organization in this college.

Give us a boost, will you?
Most earnestly,
"Interested."

Dear "Interested",

I was under the impression that tthe 110 men of the college were filled with enough enthusiasm and vitality to start anything they pleased—not excepting a men's chorus. Suppose you get enough men interested, and form an organization; then come back for help.

T. N. T.

Freshman Impression

(Written by a Freshman Student)

There is a saying, "The First impressions mean the most"; certainly the first impressions of the new student are many and varied. Though the bewilderment experienced the first day at high school is more or less lacking, there is that sense of newness that makes one feel so obviously "freshman."

The rooms in which the newcomer must find his classes have a disconcerting way of being in two different places. If he is not wary, he will find himself in a classroom in College Hall when he should be in a room of a corresponding number in Anderson Hall.

In college, one has to rely pretty much upon his own resources. It isn't possible for someone to be constantly at your side to tell you just what to do, and so you must soon learn to profit by experience.

One thing particularly outstanding about State Teachers College is the fact that every one seems to be there for a specific reason, and he means business. Then there is a certain friendliness that is impressive; everywhere you turn you are greeted by a cheerful smile, though the owner may be a total stranger to you.

From the street, the campus looks merely like another group of buildings, but when the freshman turns the corner of Anderson Hall, he finds a pretty landscape of green lawn, bushes, and a palm tree, that tend to eradicate the feeling that the college is in the heart of the city.

Of course, the freshman studies the bulletin rather intensively and is impressed with the accomplishments of the faculty.

To sum it all up, the deepest impression a freshman receives is that the college, as a seat of training, has a definite high goal and is rapidly achieving it.

TERTIUM QUID

Today, the question of "cuts" has slashed its way to the surface. Now, I know that all of you have discussed "cuts" pro and con long before this time. Naturally, I expect that you feel pretty well versed to talk the thing over with me. But, you can keep quiet this time, if you please, and let me do the honors.

Now, here's what your old friend Tertium has to say on the subject. First of all, permit me to reshape an old adage to fit this occasion. Here it goes: "A 'cut' a day keeps the student away." That's perfectly true, isn't it? Obviously, if a person deliberately cuts his class, he just isn't there, that's all.

What he misses, what care we? His loss is his own not yours, not mine, and certainly not his instructor's Why should the dear old professor feel that "A 'cut' a day makes the instructor grey"? It's not his funeral if any of his students do the disappearing act. Some times, these hide-outs are well-founded. Often, they're cases of have-to. But whether or not they're legitimate, is not the point I'm after. This is what I argue:

If John Brown cuts a lecture, do you think it's up to the instructor to make amends for J. B.'s loss? You argue that the instructor was there to meet his class and deliver his goods. At the close of the hour, his part was done. Now, if later in the day, this same instructor should encounter John Brown about the college, is it the instructor's duty to treat the student like a culprit? No, certainly not. But that's just what takes place. Yes sir, it happens every time. And poor old John doesn't get regarded merely as a criminal. No, it's worse that that. He's actually treated like a baby. And, believe it or not, he generally receives a regular elementary grade "scolding"—oh, you know the kind.

Now, if John Brown cuts his class, I agree with you most heartily that he should be prepared for the consequence of his act. But, by consequences, I don't mean "scoldings." Nor do I refer to icy stares that he usually gets. No, those are not the true consequences as I see them. I mean that if J. B. or any of his girl friends deliberately cut, they ought to be ready to stand the shock of possibly seeing, in some quizz, a question or two based on the material they missed. If the ex doesn't look familiar to them, it's their hard luck. What they don't know, is just too bad. But any person at any time might be called upon to pay for a cut this way and rightfully, too.

So you see that the above thesis is my idea of ill effects, that are just, which might be inflicted upon a student who cuts. You noticed too, that haughty looks and old "maidish" rebukes, forthcoming from apparently neglected instructors, did not find a place in my summary. No, of course not. For, dents have reached this college, old Tertium feels that, since stu- they ought to be matured enough to know their own minds. THEY ought to be the sole ones responsible for their actions, whatever they are. No one else should check them up.

So, what do you say if we do away with habitual chidings about "cuts"? For, don't you think that it's about time certain faculty members realize that long ago, the students of S. T. C. kicked the last slats out of their cradles?

Shepherds In Sackcloth

Sheila Kaye-Smith

In the "Shepherds in Sackcloth" by Sheila Kaye-Smith is mirrored the changing trends of religious feeling in an English country parish and their pull upon the rector. So, too, is mirrored the changeless trends of youth's passions and the patience that comes with age.

Mr. Bennet, the priest, and his wife live for twenty-five years in gentle harmony, when, once in his youth, the rector had come to the bed of a dying woman expecting to hear her ask for the Sacrament, she asked instead for "tapioca pudding," he had needed to muster all his strength to quell the tide of disillusionment that threatened to sink him. Now, after his long years of service, he has learned to accept without bitterness the fact that to his parishioners the care of their bodies comes before the care of their souls.

However, when Theresa Silk, fiery-headed half-gypsy niece of the lady who lives in the Squire's house,, falls in love with a peasant evangelist, Mr. Bennet is beset with misgivings. He wants Theresa's soul. He tries to reach it through friendship. While he lingers, she comes to grief. It is not until she lies dying that he speaks to her of the spirit.

"God," said Theresa, and the way she said it made Mr. Bennet feel cold. In that word, spoken as she spoke it in anguished, incredulous disgust, seemed to lie the whole rebuke to his ministry, and not only of his but of every priest who had ever ministered. Theresa's death is the crux in Mr. Bennet's spiritual development. Although he does not lose faith in God, his faith in himself begins to break. He grows weaker. At last he is a shattered old man. The young evangelist slowly achieves a spiritual power to awaken people It is his turn to kindle souls. The story ends. Through the chapters runs the current of slow days of community life, bound together and hemmed in by their dependence on the sail and by their dependence on the pastor.

NOTICE !

All students expecting to graduate in December, 1930, should file applications for graduation at once. Applications should have been filed the first week of this semester, according to the Registrar's Office, so that deficiencies in programs could be checked. Many expectant graduates, it has been found, have not yet filed their applications. Have you filed yours?

Famous Educator Addresses Group

"Culture Contacts Between China and the United States," was the subject of an address by Dr. Kiang Kang Hu, member of the University of California faculty, before the nine o'clock Social Science I class, Wednesday, September 3.

Mrs. Cowell, who has just recently returned from a visit to many countries including China, introduced Dr. Kiang Kang Hu to the group.

Dr. Kiang Kang Hu stressed the fact that enough is not known of the culture of China by America. He stated that the contact is growing between the United States and China, but that China's contributions are scarce because of internal trouble, while America's contributions are great especially in the industrial field.

During his speech Dr. Kiang Kang Hu explained that in China the students stand and the teacher remains seated when conducting a class. As a result of this statement, the entire class stood silently for a moment at the conclusion of the very interesting speech while Dr. Kiang Kang Hu acknowledged their appreciation by bowing.

Siena Club Dance Proves Success

In accordance with their policy of having a monthly dance, the members of the Siena Club held the first of their series of social gatherings Friday evening, September 12, at the Siena club house on Buchanan and Page streets.

Members of the student body of St. Ignatius College were guests of the evening together with other friends of the Siena members.

The excellence of the orchestra and the pervading atmosphere of friendliness assured an enjoyable evening to all those who attended.

Approximately seventy couples were present, all of whom pressed the desire to be present at the next of Siena's dances to be held Friday, October 10.

Glee Club Plans Tea For Members

Final plans are under way for a tea to be given by the Glee Club for new members and faculty members, Wednesday, September 24, from four to six o'clock. It will take place in the Student Activities room, number 109.

The hostesse are to be: Louise Miclo, Myrtle Saxe, Audrey Moore, Edith Schulze, Dorothy Asher, Ruth Brazel, Mae Quick, Mildred Scott, and Thelma Silva.

In the receiving line will be President and Mrs. Roberts, and the club sponsors who are as follows: Miss Levy, Mrs. McCauley, Miss England, Dr. Rypins, and Dr. Barney. The officers of the club who will also be in the receiving line are: Lillian Tyrrell, president; Avis Kuhn, vice-president; Mildred Scott, secretary; and Viola Giesen, treasurer.

Bridge Tea To Be Given By Siena

The Siena Bridge Tea will be given September 20, at the Siena House.

Proceeds from the tea will be utilized in buying materials from which infants' garments will be made by the members of the club. The finished products will be on display at the Palace Hotel, together with the other clothes made by the Needlework Guild, with which Siena is affiliated.

Katherine Landers, chairman of the committee, has been working all summer to insure the success of the project.

The second meeting of the Dames Club was held Thursday, September 4, at noon.

Mrs. Spozio, faculty, sponsor, welcomed the new members, and Mrs. E. Phillips, president of the organization, invited the members to a bridge tea at her home, September 11.

Committee chairmen for the semester are: Dorothy Hoffman, membership; Alma Doconey, activities; Merian S. Davis, publicity.

Athletes Practice For New Season

Plans for the athletic future of S. T. C. are being rapidly formulated by Athletic Manager, Allan Wyatt. With some six sports lined up on the fall program, there should be plenty of opportunity for the furthering of athletics in the school.

Foremost among the present plans are those for the coming basketball season. With a call for candidates going out in the latter part of next month, and the actual starting of practice on November 1, prospects for the team will be watched from now until that time, according to Dean David Cox. Cox will be the coach for this sport, as well as for several of the others.

Interclass and intergymnastic competition will be used as a means for selection of candidates. About one hundred men are in the gymnasium classes, and the outstanding material will probably be found among them.

Allan Wyatt is general manager in charge of all athletics. Arthur Rosenbaum, first assistant general manager, will act in the capacity of co-worker with Wyatt and a publicity director. James Stinchcomb is second assistant. Managers of the other athletics are: football, W. Connolley; basketball, C. McGrath; swimming, F. Howard; track, J. Beckwith, and tennis, H. Rogie.

Men interested in first and second managerships of the above sports will be considered for the position upon application to Dean Cox, stating position desired and qualifications. The first assistant manager will become manager starting August, 1931.

Student Affairs Has Busy Session At Second Meeting

At the Student Affairs' Committee meeting, Thursday, September 11, the College Theatre, the Library, noon dances, and men's athletic activities came up for discussion.

The College Theatre was ganted permission to sell season tickets costing one dollar for three, which would be transferable. Single tickets will be sold for individual performances.

A committee of students was appointed by Miss Levy to investigate the library rules and regulations.

Another committee was appointed to formulate plans for noonday dances that would take place once a week. A nominal charge of ten cents for one hour would be made, and the admission money would revert back to the Student Body for activities.

Because of the increase of men in the student body, means must be found to raise money for their athletic activities. A committee was appointed for this duty, which will work out a plan whereby the student body fees can be raised nominally, and there can perhaps be issued a year book which will contain tickets to the important student activities.

For the benefit of those students who may be interested, Miss Ruth Fleming, Librarian, announced that the University School of Librarianship offers a two-year course in Librarianship. San Jose Teachers College also offers a full year of under-graduate work in such courses.

Miss Fleming also said that San Francisco S. T. C. expects to have library courses added to the curriculum.

Nyoda Club Has Activities Planned

Dean Ward, sponsor of the Nyoda Club, announced that the club will meet every Friday noon. Any member of the student body is eligible for membership.

"The Nyoda Club is the service club of the college, in that the members perform useful services for both students and outsiders," said Dean Ward. "When students are ill, or out of school for a time, a "Bay Leaf" is sent to each one by the club."

Fall activities promise an attraction for each member. The girls go to the Childrens' Hospital and read to the children who are ill and unable to attend school. Also the children at the Orphanage are given a "real" party at Hallowe'en by the club. Besides gifts for the children, food and other articles are presented to families who may be forgotten by other organizations at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

With bunnies and baskets of eggs the Easter parties given for the children at the orphanages and hospitals hold first place among the spring activites. Besides these, there are various socials and parties given for the members of the club.

FRANCISCAN FRIERS

We have been wondering . . . for a very long time . . . Why so many students . . . Are trying to fascinate cows . . . Have you ever seen a cow . . . A nice brown polka dotted mooley cow . . . A "Contented Cow" . . . Or perhaps just any old cow . . . Digest her lunch . . . No . . . Well she chews . . . Oh, how she chews . . . Slowly . . . Ruminatively . . . Pensively . . . Yea, brother . . . She chews marvelously . . . And now . . . She has a competitior . . . You may doubt our word . . . but my dear Watson . . . The deduction . . . Is so elementary . . . All you have to do . . . Is to stand anywhere . . . Around this college . . . Just anywhere . . . Cafe . . . bookstore . . . Or classroom . . . Above all . . . Don't forget the classroom . . . And watch our students chew . . . Pensively . . . Ruminatively . . . Benignly . . . We wonder at the competition . . . Perhaps it is an Entrance Test . . . Indeed . . . We all wonder . . . Why girls want to look like cows . . .

But for scarcity of space, there could be a long list of names of those students with whom the freshmen should become close friends during their sojourn at S. T. C.

When hunger and coins are few, it is wise to be friendly with Marion Donaldson. Having purchased a bag of potatoe chips, she greets her friends with "Have a chip?"

On examination days when time or lack of energy does not permit one's rushing to the Book Store for a pencil, sit next to "Red" Mareck. She is always willing to loan her very last one.

If on the last day of the term, the stamped envelopes for the grade-cards have been left home, remember that Ruth Jones is the friend in need.

Make it a point to add "Dot" Williamson to the list. Ask her for her notes on that certain course. She will gladly make the loan if she has not burned them.

A faculty member was at loss for a student's name in an English class and yet desired to have the student recite.

Said she blithely, "Will the little blonde from Sausalito please recite?"

Result: blushes from the blonde and the instructor, laughter from the class, and no recitation.

Large Classes In Extension Division

The extension division, under the supervision of Mr. Alexander S. Boulware, now has one of the largest enrollments in the history of the college.

According to Mr. Boulware the extension division is organized to take care of the teachers in service who are working for degrees or special credentials in administration, or supervision, or some special field.

The department has organized classes at Technical High School in Oakland, and one at Haight High School in Alameda. The classes taught in this city are all held here. Classes are held during the evening, some beginning at 4 o'clock.

Dr. C. J. Du Four, Dean of the College, has the largest class, numbering sixty-eight. The course given by the dean is from French history.

Mr. A. S. Boulware

Mr. John Butler, assistant professor of Education, is running Dean Du Four a close second with an enrollment of fifty-two in the course, Philosophy of Education.

A course in Sex Education is being given here for the first time by Mr. Henry M. Grant. It is also the first four unit course given in the Extension Division.

Bookaneers Hold Premier Luncheon

New members were welcomed to the Bookaneers' Club by the president, Chester McGrath, at a luncheon given in the students' lunch room, Monday, September 8, 1930.

Jacquelyne Beedle told of the evolution of the club from a hiking club to its present form. Dr. Arnesen, the sponsor, spoke about the functions of the club and discussed future plans for the group.

Mr. Frank Fenton of the English department, a new member of the faculty, was an honor guest. Each Bookaneer member brought one friend as a guest.

The club will discuss Poe's "Pit and the Pendulum" at their next meeting, Thursday, September 11, at 4 o'clock, in room 109.

W.A.A. Swim Party Is A Huge Success

The W. A. A. swimming party was held Friday, September 12, at the Western Women's Club natatorium.

The program comprised exhibition diving and swimming by "Bunny" Fergus, 1929 national diving champion, "Bunny" Carter, world's youngest exhibition diver, and Marion Gillman, 1929 National backstroke champion who was the only American to place in the backstroke event at Amsterdam, Holland.

Under the skillful management of the swimming instructor, Miss Holtz, the water sports were arranged. The dinner, which followed the events in honor of the three young women, was a huge success.

Seniors Make Plans For Social Events

The class of December '30 held its second meeting of the term on Thursday, September 4. Many interesting events for the term were planned. Among the activities which the seniors will enjoy are: an informal get-together, an informal luncheon, a Hallowe'en party, a formal dinner, and an all-important senior week.

Another novel idea of the senior class is the acquisition of a bench for their exclusive use. It is to be known as Senior Bench. Woe be to the unsuspecting freshman who tries to occupy tha seat.

Put this little notice in your date book. The "Caf" soda fountain is open daily until three o'clock in the afternoon. It opens at eleven and closses at three. Make a note of that. Your girl friend will know, if you don't.

Phi Lambda Chi Gives Open House

Open house and a tea were given by Phi Lambda Chi Thursday, September 11, at the Phi Chi house, 1927 Washington street.

The guests of honor were, Mrs. Maxwell, the new house mother, and Mrs. Anna V. Dorris, sponsor and member of the faculty.

Refreshments were served. A tour of inspection through the house concluded the afternoon.

Plans for re-decorating the kitchen and the dining room have been formulated, and it is expected that the end of the semester will see the completion of the project.

W. A. A. Hike

The W. A. A. invites its members on a hike to Muir Woods Sunday, September 21. Bring lunch. A good time is promised to all who show up at the meeting place to be decided upon definitely at a latter date.
